

DR. G. A. WALTON SPEAKS AT CLINIC OF WOODS SCHOOL

Sessions Held in Collaboration With Medical College of Virginia

MEETINGS, RICHMOND

Bucks Countian Says That "Church is Spiritually Strategic Sanctuary"

(Special to The Courier)

RICHMOND, Va., Apr. 22—"The church does not dispense strength of spirit as a standard brand, sold in a package," George A. Walton, American Friends Service Committee, Philadelphia, and principal emeritus of the George School, Bucks County, Pa., told a meeting on the emotional problems of the mentally and physically handicapped child here today. Mr. Walton addressed the morning session of the Child Research Clinic of The Woods Schools, of Langhorne, Pa., on the influence of the church in the personality development of the handicapped child.

"The church is, however," said Mr. Walton, "a spiritually strategic sanctuary, where persons of every walk, regardless of differences in physique, intellect and grace, may find the spiritual refreshment, stimulus and creative energy necessary to overcome their limitations."

Abstracts of Mr. Walton's address at the conference, which was held in collaboration with the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology of the Medical College of Virginia, and the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals of the Commonwealth of Virginia, under the direction of Dr. Charlotte E. Grave, of The Woods Schools, follow:

"A schoolmaster recognizes the great range of difference from one person to another: in physique, in intellect and in spirit.

"There is, for instance, the boy born deaf and dumb who so transcended his limitations that now, a Ph.D., he works in a scientific department of the federal government. Then consider the girl with 21 allergies, re-entering high school at 18 years of age, with tenth-grade work incomplete. By heroic effort, summer and winter, she met graduation requirements in two years.

"Many names are used for this precious quality of spirit. A college president calls it 'ambition'; a football coach, 'mental poise'; the man in the street 'gumption'. A psychologist writes of 'some central energizing factor which promotes the activity of all these special abilities.'"

"The church teaches that the creation of the universe is one of the mighty works of God, that the human being is gifted with great powers of thought and expression, and as a son of God may enter into spiritual communion with his Father. It is through Jesus Christ, the Son of God, that this miracle becomes possible for all men. In this communion, persons may hear the voice of God, or see His light, or draw upon his endless source of spiritual energy.

"God's love, however, does not require that children be deprived of His blessings until they earn them. He has made His gifts implicit in the course of nature. The sunshine is His, the rain, the wind, the gay wild-flowers, the impulse to invent games to play, the eagerness to learn. And above all, father's joy and hope, and mother's love. The mother of the boy born deaf and dumb sought to utilize the best scientific and educational help available, but her indomitable spirit supported her shy, embarrassed little child until he could stand alone and defend his thesis orally before the examiners for the doctor's degree.

DR. SLOAN GIVES A TALK ON COMMUNISM

Addresses Bucks County Methodist Ministerium Session at Hulmeville

DR. KITTO COMMENTS

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 22—An address on the subject of "Communism," which proved provocative of much thought, was delivered by Dr. Harold Paul Sloan, of Philadelphia, yesterday, when he appeared before members of the Bucks County Methodist Ministerium and their guests.

Dr. Sloan was introduced by the Rev. John Brinton, of Hatboro, at the morning session held in Neshaminy Methodist Church. His address, one hour in length, brought forth a number of queries from the audience, with additional questions asked of him during the dinner which followed.

Dr. Sloan talked of tactics used by the Communists; methods used in expansion; the principles of Communism and its threat to society in general. The author of various articles on Communism, Dr. Sloan distributed to those present copies of a radio address he had recently delivered, titled "Communists or Free Men?"

The meeting was opened with a 15-minute organ recital by Miss Clara L. Illick; then followed a devotional period, with brief message, by the Rev. John C. Kulp, pastor of the hostess church. The business meeting was conducted by the Rev. Robert Walker, pastor of Yardley Church. He named as a nominating committee, the Rev. Charles Weller, Bristol, the Rev. Henry Heaver, Cornwall Heights, and the Rev. Mr. Kulp. The list of nominees will be presented to the Ministerium members at the time of election, the May session in Yardley.

BEWARE SECRECY!

Announcement in Washington that the armament end of the Atlantic Pact is to be kept a secret has an ominous ring.

The announcement was made by Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and President Truman's right-hand supporter in Congress.

Senator Connally promised that Secretary of State Acheson would report fully to Congress "in confidence" about what the U. S. government proposes to do in handing cash and surplus munitions over to the various nations which have joined with us in the proposed new alliance.

But the New Deal Senator hastened to add that publication of the program would be long delayed. There was even a strong hint that the American people will never know how much costly war equipment is being ladled out, or to whom—until after the brass-hats have completed the job.

The implied defense of such outrageous suppression of information so vital to the American electorate, and so pertinent to the large question now before Congress and the people of whether to go ahead with the Atlantic Pact as drawn, is the slim argument that the details of the arms program would be military information valuable to our "enemies."

That dog won't hunt. We have no enemies, in the diplomatic sense—other than, of course, the Axis powers of Germany, Japan and Italy, with whom we may still technically be at war.

If the implication is that Russia is our "enemy," this is contrary to the fact. We are still an ally of Russia, we are on full diplomatic basis of friendship with her, we sit with her in United Nations. It cannot seriously be pretended that Uncle Sam is justified in suppressing the general outlines of the arms plan for such military reasons.

Actually, for us to undertake large-scale armaments in nations close to Russia's borders, at a time when we are on terms of diplomatic friendship with Russia, and to do this without advising Russia precisely what and why we were so doing, would be a blatantly unfriendly act on our part—one which Russia would be thoroughly justified in resenting most vigorously.

Are Senator Connally and Secretary Acheson ready to recommend that we declare a state of war to exist between the

CONFLICT OF DATES CAUSES CHANGE

Booking Agent Dated Spivak In Two Places On Same Date

THORNHILL INSTEAD

A mix-up with a booking agency in New York City, which booked Charlie Spivak in Bristol and in Houston, Texas on the same date, May 4th, has caused an upset in the initial presentation of St. Ann's A. A.'s plans for top entertainment in Bristol. Because of the difficulty and great traveling distance involved, Charles Spivak's band is being replaced by Claude Thornhill, voted the "best band of 1948."

The committee in charge announces that any person who has purchased a ticket for the Spivak show, and who does not wish to see the Thornhill show, will have his money immediately refunded.

Composer-arranger and pianist par excellence—that's Claude Thornhill, the great bandleader who brings his fine musical aggregation to the Grand Theatre on May 4, 1949 to demonstrate why all cities pick him as "The Band to Watch in 1949." Claude is a triple-threat man and the lovely theme song of the Thornhill orchestra introduces all three of the maestro's talents simultaneously. Claude is the composer and arranger of the hauntingly beautiful "Snowfall" which also features himself at the piano.

The other richly colored band arrangements are all written by the maestro. Thornhill has a big advantage over most of the current bandleaders in being able to combine a classical background with the current trend of popular music. The result is music that bears a distinctive Claude Thornhill stamp.

His training at both the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the Curtis Institute of Music are the prime factors in making the band what it is today. Claude's classical training also shows in his use of two French horns which blend beautifully into the brass section.

Dr. Oliver Heckman Speaks To Pennsbury Association

FALLSINGTON, Apr. 22—Children are no different than they were 50 years ago, according to Dr. Oliver Heckman, superintendent of the Langhorne public schools. Dr. Heckman was the speaker at the meeting of the Pennsbury Parent-Teacher Association.

He blamed the rapidity of present day life and the present economic and social standards for behavior of today's student. Dr. Heckman added that it was the responsibility of every taxpayer, regardless of whether or not he had children, to help the schools maintain a type of education that will help the pupil to adapt himself to present-day standards.

According to Dr. Heckman, lack of discipline in the school is to blame, to a large extent, for the student's lack of opportunity for expression. He added that broken homes also are responsible for poorly-adapted students.

Asked what he felt was the proper number of students for a high school and elementary school, Dr. Heckman said that for a district such as Pennsbury he would recommend a school in the elementary group with six grades and a teacher for each grade, for the high school, 1200 students.

The scholarship committee reported that a total of $900 had been reached in the advertising booklet goal of $1,000.

Harris Ellis, speaking for the transportation committee, announced that new bus route tryouts would start June 1. He said that rates for the buses would be less next year and added that the committee was attempting to eliminate the use of one bus.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

It's surprising that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., wants to go to Congress. . . . Doesn't seem like the kind of fellow to deliberately seek obscurity.

Freshmen Congressmen speak only when spoken to and draw committee assignments like "public lands" or "marine and fisheries."

In fact, one fellow who went to Congress two terms ago is still sending franked flatfish to his friends.

He ran for Congress to help shape our foreign policy and they have him flitting flounders.

Next term he expects to be promoted to "Indian Affairs" and he's working up his maiden speech with a smoky fire and a blanket.

Anyway Franklin is running on the Liberal Party ticket. . . . New York City has so many Democrats in Congress now, he thought he'd like to be different.

SHAKING LIKE A SIEVE

Seismology, the study of earthquakes and tremors, takes its name from the Greek word for earthquake, which came in turn from the verb "to shake." When the Pacific Northwest shook like a sieve the other day, it was the worst quake since settlement of the region. Not all of the eight deaths reported were of persons hit by falling debris. Several persons with weak hearts were simply frightened to death.

Earthquakes, of course, are no strangers to the Pacific Coast. The fires resulting from the San Francisco quake of 1906 had a large part in the toll of 452 lives. Other parts of the country are not immune. The second most destructive earthquake shook Charles, S. C., into flames and killed 41 persons in 1886.

What can be done to lessen the damage of earthquakes where history shows they happen most often? In Japan, after the disaster of 1923, large new buildings were constructed so that they would move as units under the jolting instead of breaking into pieces. Modern steel-frame office buildings in Seattle, Tacoma and Olympia did not seem to suffer much in the recent quake.

But all buildings cannot be built that way. If warnings could be sent out in time people could take precautions to save their own lives and do what they could to protect plate glass at least. Scientific attempts to predict earthquakes have not come to much so far. The pinpoint prediction of hurricanes is something seismologists can only envy. But some day scientists may be able to issue earthquake warnings.

ELEMENTAL, DOCTOR

Freedom may be on the run in many parts of this sad world, but there is one area in which it is more than holding its own, and that is in the field of pediatrics.

Biologists, dietitians, physicians, psychologists, psychiatrists—scientists all—are constantly theorizing and experimenting, seeking to discover new methods, and new diets that will improve the health of children.

There is a rewarding quest, but occasionally there are steps in the program that leave the uninitiated parent with eyebrow aloft and skepticism in his heart. There is, for instance, the case of the husband and wife, both physicians, who instituted a "free-choice" system for their two children, starting when their two girls were about a year and a half old.

With certain limitations, the youngsters were allowed to eat what they wanted when they wanted it. The girls are now four and six years old, and according to the parents they're in great shape—happy, well-adjusted, and without tooth decay. Furthermore, they eat quite sensibly, and they never have stomach upsets.

Some pediatricians even go these parents one better. They believe in "self-demanding" babies—which means babies who have no regular feeding schedule but are fed only when they want to eat.

Beware Secrecy!

U. S. A. and Russia? Of course not! But until then, we have the obligation on our part to go through all the proper motions, to deal courteously and above-board with Russia—no matter what may be the private feelings of our diplomatic corps.

The Senator and Secretary know this as well as anyone else. Neither has had the hardihood to say publicly that the information concerned is being suppressed to keep it from the Russians.

As a matter of fact, it is very likely that Russia already knows all she needs to know about the plan. If there is any spot in our government which has been probably infiltrated with Communist agents, spies and sympathizers, it is this same Department of State. Neither President Truman nor a parade of Secretaries, and not even Attorney General Tom Clark (who has often spoken of the dangers of Communism), has ever made a determined drive to eliminate these fifth-columnists. It is an easy guess that Moscow has been privately advised of all pertinent facts about the arms program, just as fast as it has been worked out.

Since it can't be the Russians whom our State Department is trying to keep in the dark, then who can it be?

That's an easy question. THE SECRECY IS TO KEEP THE AMERICAN PEOPLE IN THE DARK!

Consider the facts. The Atlantic Pact with its provisions for "automatic war" and its arraying of Uncle Sam in partnership with a list of "cat and dog" nations many of which in the past have been against us as often as with us, and none of which supports the concepts of government and economy which we believe in—this Pact has aroused more general skepticism and misgivings in America than any of the many "stunts" the New Deal has thought up.

Most sensitive point in the proposed treaty, which is now waiting Senatorial action, is the question of how far our government proposes to go in delivering American cash and American war equipment to these unreliable foreign allies.

This question has been glossed over from the start. The first statement from Washington on this point was that it would involve "only" a billion dollars. This has grown a bit, until today it stands at "only" two billion dollars.

But meanwhile it has developed that President Truman and his military leaders seek power to declare that anything they wish to give away to be "surplus," and thereupon hand it over to whomever they choose. We saw a bit of this in pre-war days. For example, President Roosevelt gave Great Britain scores of our destroyers which he said were "obsolete" and "surplus." Yet from Churchill's memoirs, one gets the impression that these "obsolete" destroyers were a most valuable naval contribution to Great Britain—and when the German submarines hit our Atlantic seaboard, we found ourselves with neither planes nor destroyers to protect ourselves!

Both Congress and the American people are fully justified in demanding complete information on what is going to be given away—and how much will be left for our own needs—when the Truman boys start handing out bombers, tanks, artillery, ships, guns, bullets and powder.

The most tragic end result of this program could be that some day American soldiers might find themselves being shot down by some of this "surplus" and "obsolete" equipment. That was happening not so very long ago, the last time our New Dealers got big-hearted and carried out a similar "secret" program of this sort.

This business of secrecy in government has grown into one of the worst perils facing our freedom.

Popular sovereignty—call it "democracy" if you wish—becomes a joke whenever a government gets round to the point of suppressing information which the voters need to form intelligent judgments on public matters.

We've been burning our fingers with it for several years. Long after the suppression of information, over and over again, it has developed that the supposed military importance of the secrecy had very little to do with the matter—and that what was really being protected was some stuffed shirt or another, or a cluster of brass-hats who had made a mistake, or some pleasant little graft that was raiding the public's money.

The issue of how much arms are to be shipped out of this country to "implement" the Atlantic Pact and where they are going, and how much their replacement will cost, is a highly pertinent question which ought to be answered before the fact is voted on. The American people are even more clearly entitled to this information than to Congress itself.

A previous Democratic President of much greater stature than the present incumbent once expressed a concept of diplomacy which ought to become the guide and inspiration of our State Department.

He was President Woodrow Wilson.

And his concept of diplomatic affairs he put into the following words: "Open covenants, openly arrived at."

"The church, however, has not been given this spiritual energy to dispense as a standard brand, sold in a package. It is, rather, the strategic area where the resolute, patient, far-seeing person may seek this pearl of great price, which evidences his kinship with the Source of life and power. Through the Bible and its philosophy, through meditation and prayer, surrounded by a fellowship of seekers, one may experience this creative communion and thus add his original contribution to the capital stock of Divine Grace, so needed by organized human society in its institutions from family to the United Nations."

A better understanding of the emotional attitude of the family toward the handicapped child is needed in the treatment of mentally and physically handicapped children. Dr. Leo J. Kanter, director of the Children's Psychiatric Service of Johns Hopkins Hospital, told the conference, "The time is past," said Dr. Kanter, "when emphasis on the care of the handicapped child centered mainly on physical health and education, with little regard for the emotional interplay between the child and other people. More and more attention should be given to important attitudes which determine the status of the handicapped child in the environmental structure," he said.

The emotional impact of disability upon the individual as a result of the premium that our culture places on everyone being like everyone else is one of the greatest obstacles to social adjustment facing the emotionally dependent or physically handicapped child. Dr. Coleman Longan, neuropsychiatrist at Virginia Medical College and member of the staff of Children's Memorial Clinic, Richmond, told a session of the conference, "Unfortunately, the social adjustment of the emotionally dependent or physically handicapped child must be accomplished in a social situation," said Dr. Longan. "I say unfortunately," he added, "because rarely does the person suffering from a physical or emotional handicap possess the emotional stability necessary for this."

What can be done by medical research to prevent mental and physical abnormalities in new born children? Further investigation of the glandular secretions, particularly those secretions that excite the metabolic processes, may contribute greatly to present day prenatal care, especially in the prevention of abnormalities, according to Dr. Charles C. Chapple, senior physician and director of research project at the Children's Hospital, Philadelphia. Said Dr. Chapple, who is also assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

"Rhythmic chemical changes in the uterine environment of the impregnated ova of the expectant mother, varied by many different physiologic and psychologic influences mediated through the secretory glands, may be upset by environmental stimuli. If the upsets are of sufficient magnitude, they may be responsible for certain mental and physical defects in new born children."

Basic conflicts produced in parents of emotionally dependent and physically handicapped children, evoked by fear, disruption of hopes and aspirations, may so blind them to a realistic appraisal of their situation that effective, remedial action is paralyzed or delayed, retarding the social adjustment of the child and defeating the very thing they seek, Dr. Richard L. Frank, professor of psychiatry at Long Island College of Medicine, and associate psychoanalyst at the Clinic for Research and Psychoanalytic Training, Columbia University, said.

"The fundamental problem in the care of handicapped children is careful adjustment of environmental pressures in accordance with the child's available mental and physical resources," said Dr. Frank, "and proper provision for the child's needs realistically and from the child's own point of view regarding the situation."

Sterilization of children with inherent mental defects, because of their inability to produce normal offspring, was recommended by Dr. Joseph Barrett, commissioner of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals. Dividing children who are mentally deficient into two classes, those with inherent or germ plasma defects, and those with non-inherent or accidental defects resulting from infection or injury, Dr. Barrett outlined a program for the prevention and treatment of mental disease in children which included, in addition to sterilization, adequate vocational training to be supplied by "the educational system" for those who are not in state mental institutions and are not social problems, and training to capacity for those who are in institutions. He also recommended sterilization for those whose mental defects are accidental "because though able, possibly, to produce normal children, they are incapable of raising them normally." A program of training to capacity would also include this group, he added.

Philadelphia Electric's Quarter Century Club gathered last night for their twenty-third annual dinner. The 354 new members welcomed to the club's ranks last evening swell the membership to 1933, all of whom are listed above. Their time-tested experience and constant devotion to duty have contributed mightily to Philadelphia Electric's standard of service. We frankly told them so last night . . . and to-day want to tell everyone in the territory we serve.

TRENTON CATHOLIC TRACK TEAM WINS TRIANGULAR MEET HELD AT MORRISVILLE; BRISTOL SECOND

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 22.—Trenton Catholic High won a triangular track meet with Bristol and Morrisville here yesterday afternoon. Coach John Ungrady's boys scored 86 points. Bristol finished second with 62½ points with Morrisville getting 31½ points.

Bristol made an excellent showing in the meet, Coach McClister being minus several of his runners and Charles Long suffering an injury to his shoulder in the broad jump. Long had but one jump and this was good enough to give him fifth spot.

Bristol stayed close to the Trenton Catholic total until the finish. With the first four events completed the Warriors and the Golden Wave were tied at 27 points each. Bristol went ahead in the fifth event but Trenton Catholic jumped into a 55½, 42½ lead at the end of the eighth event. Bristol cut into the lead when the 10th event was finished but in the last two, Trenton increased its lead to over 20 points.

First place winners for the McClistermen were Howard Bailey, Bob Bowen, Harry Ratcliffe, and Donald DeLong.

Bailey did a beautiful job in the mile run, the only event in which he participated. "Bill" Brady, of Trenton Catholic, took the lead in this run and lead until the first lap was finished. Then Marty Broom, of Bristol took over and it wasn't until the third lap that Bailey began to let out. He passed both Brady and Broom and gradually increased his lead until he was a quarter of a lap ahead of the rest when he broke the tape at 5 minutes and 8 seconds.

Bowen captured the 880 yard run after taking the lead towards the finish. He stepped ahead of Bob Carroll while rounding the third curve on the track and maintained his speed the remainder of the race. Ratcliffe won the high jump after clearing the bar at 5' 5". Ratcliffe did not choose to attempt to leap higher. Donald DeLong hurled the javelin 131 feet, 5 inches to win his event.

Bob Felver, of Morrisville, was the only double winner. He captured 100 yard dash and the broad jump and finished in a deadlock with Pat Carroll for first place in the 220 yard dash.

"Bill" Lindenthal piled up 11 points for the Trenton Catholic team, placing in four events.

Paul Fleischer, Morrisville, went over the bar at 10 feet, six inches, in the pole vaulting match. This is believed to be a Lower Bucks County record. Fleischer tried to make the vault at 10-10 but missed. Bristol's best event was the high jump in which it tallied 11 points with Ratcliffe winning and Reiff, Konefal, and Sharp placing. In the mile run, Bailey and Broom tabulated 9 points for the Warriors.

The shot put gave Trenton Catholic 12 points while it scored 10 in both the 880 yard run and discus throw.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Editor's Note: "Sportsmen's Briefs" has been a regular weekly feature in the Bristol Courier for the last 323 consecutive weeks (6 1/2 years), and after writing approximately 150,000 words on outdoor items in that time, Joe Elbersson has secured the services of two guest columnists for his column today. They are two well-known local sportsmen, John C. Johnson and Harry Bossler, who have collaborated to give our readers the following column:

Inasmuch as the veracity of the regular sports editor of this column might be questioned (especially after a good first day's catch) we've agreed you readers would appreciate the true facts and present them herewith.

After arising at 2:00 a. m. on Friday morning we started driving. We arrived at just about daylight on the Little Bushkill, in the Poconos, feeling very lucky to be alive. The regular editor of this article was the driver.

The water looked perfect, not too high and not too low. The weather was just right and the fish were biting. In the first hour, Joe had eight nice trout while your guest columnists had only three. Johnnie Johnson headed down stream out of the crowd and when we asked him, two hours later, how many he caught he told us that when he caught his next one and nine more he would have his limit.

About eleven o'clock the fishermen started to leave the stream and after things became a little more quiet we started catching fish again. By two o'clock the three of us checked our creels and counted 27 brook ranging in size from 7 to 10 inches. About that time it clouded up and a storm drove us off the stream so we called it a day.

Saturday morning about daylight, we tried the same stream again. It produced only six trout up to ten o'clock so we moved out and tried a stretch of nice water on the Raymondskill.

Joe must have had one tied and he made a dash for a hole he said produced a nice rainbow for him last year. Not thirty seconds later we looked up stream and saw him rolling up his sleeves and trying to reach down into the water. When he saw us looking at him he started shouting and waving his arms. We couldn't hear him above the rushing water but it looked to us as though he was signalling for a landing net. Just the day before he told us that anybody that used a net was a "simple sissy" so we knew he wasn't asking for a net and we simply ignored him. He was grimacing and making motions with his mouth which we are glad we don't have to print in this column because they're hard to spell. We know that the Rev. Weller caught his ten trout the first day on Mill Creek, near Buckingham, and we're sure he didn't talk to the fish like that. Wish more fishermen would let Joe know how many fish they caught and what soothing words they used to lure them. Well, finally Joe reached into the water with both arms and after fumbling around he held up a beautiful 15-inch brownie. And brother it was a beauty! It had to be, to make a hardened fisherman like Joe run up and down the banks holding the trout up in the air with sweat pouring off his forehead when the temperature was low enough to freeze the line in the guides. After he showed us the fish, which by that time was stuffed up to the gills with sinkers ready for weighing in, we had to help him find his rod which he lost in the excitement. Congratulations, Joe, it's not every fisherman who can land a beautiful brownie with his line snagged on the bottom and his landing net nestling comfortably in the trunk of his car.

We tried for over two hours after that and not one of the three of us were able to coax another strike, so we decided to give it up for the day.

It was, all in all, an enjoyable and productive week-end. Most of the anglers we met had trout. We've already begun our plans for opening day next year, April 15, 1950. Yes, we're going back to the Poconos!

P. S.—Garden huckle was used exclusively as the lure.
P. S.—Saw more grouse than we've seen for a long time, and trust this augurs a good hunting season this fall.
P. S.—Also saw two herds of deer on Sunday.

DR. G. A. WALTON SPEAKS AT CLINIC OF WOODS SCHOOL

Sessions Held in Collaboration With Medical College of Virginia

MEETINGS, RICHMOND

Bucks Countian Says That "Church is Spiritually Strategic Sanctuary"

(Special to The Courier)

RICHMOND, Va., Apr. 22—The church does not dispense strength of spirit as a standard brand, sold in a package," George A. Walton, American Friends Service Committee, Philadelphia, and principal emeritus of the George School, Bucks County, Pa., told a meeting on the emotional problems of the mentally and physically handicapped child here today. Mr. Walton addressed the morning session of the Child Research Clinic of The Woods Schools, of Langhorne, Pa., on the influence of the church in the personality development of the handicapped child.

"The church is, however," said Mr. Walton, "a spiritually strategic sanctuary, where persons of every walk, regardless of differences in physique, intellect and grace, may find the spiritual refreshment, stimulus and creative energy necessary to overcome their limitations."

Abstracts of Mr. Walton's address at the conference, which was held in collaboration with the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology of the Medical College of Virginia, and the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals of the Commonwealth of Virginia, under the direction of Dr. Charlotte E. Grave, of The Woods Schools, follow:

"A schoolmaster recognizes the great range of difference from one person to another: in physique, in intellect and in spirit.

"There is, for instance, the boy born deaf and dumb who so transcends his limitations that now, a Ph.D., he works in a scientific department of the federal government. Then consider the girl with 21 allergies, re-entering high school at 18 years of age, with tenth-grade work incomplete. By heroic effort, summer and winter, she met graduation requirements in two years.

"Many names are used for this precious quality of spirit. A college president calls it 'ambition'; a football coach, 'mental poise'; the man in the street 'gut'. Grandmother called it 'gumption'. A psychologist writes of 'some central energizing factor which promotes the activity of all these special abilities.'"

"The church teaches that the creation of the universe is one of the mighty works of God, that the human being is gifted with great powers of thought and expression, and as a son of God may enter into spiritual communion with his Father. It is through Jesus Christ, the Son of God, that this miracle becomes possible for all men. In this communion, persons may hear the voice of God, or see His light, or draw upon his endless source of spiritual energy.

"God's love, however, does not require that children be deprived of His blessings until they earn them. He has made His gifts implicit in the course of nature. The sunshine is His, the rain, the wind, the gay wild-flowers, the impulse to invent games to play, the eagerness to learn. And above all, father's joy and hope, and mother's love. The mother of the boy born deaf and dumb sought to utilize the best scientific and educational help available, but her indomitable spirit supported her shy, embarrassed little child until he could stand alone and defend his thesis orally before the examiners on the doctor's degree.

"The church, however, has not been given this spiritual energy to dispense as a standard brand, sold in a package. It is, rather, the strategic area where the resolute, patient, far-seeing person may seek this pearl of great price, which evidences his kinship with the Source of life and power. Through the Bible and its philosophy, through meditation and prayer, surrounded by a fellowship of seekers, one may experience this creative communion and thus add his original contribution to the capital stock of Divine Grace, so needed by organized human society in its institutions from family to the United Nations."

A better understanding of the emotional attitude of the family toward the handicapped child is needed in the treatment of mentally and physically handicapped children. Dr. Leo J. Kanner, director of the Children's Psychiatric Service of Johns Hopkins Hospital, told the conference, "The time is past," said Dr. Kanner, "when emphasis on the care of the handicapped child centered mainly on physical health and education, with little regard for the emotional interplay between the child and other people. More and more attention should be given to important attitudes which determine the status of the handicapped child in the environmental structure," he said.

The emotional impact of disability upon the individual as a result of the premium that our culture places on everyone being like everyone else is one of the greatest obstacles to social adjustment facing the emotionally dependent or physically handicapped child. Dr. Coleman Longan, neuropsychiatrist at Virginia Medical College and member of the staff of Children's Memorial Clinic, Richmond, told a session of the conference, "Unfortunately, the social adjustment of the emotionally dependent or physically handicapped child must be accomplished in a social situation," said Dr. Longan. "I say unfortunately," he added, "because rarely does the person suffering from a physical or emotional handicap possess the emotional stability necessary for this."

What can be done by medical research to prevent mental and physical abnormalities in new born children? Further investigation of the glandular secretions, particularly those secretions that excite the metabolic processes, may contribute greatly to present day prenatal care, especially in the prevention of abnormalities, according to Dr. Charles C. Chapple, senior physician and director of research project at the Children's Hospital, Philadelphia. Said Dr. Chapple, who is also assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

"Rhythmic chemical changes in the uterine environment of the impregnated ova of the expectant mother, varied by many different physiologic and psychologic influences mediated through the secretory glands, may be upset by environmental stimuli. If the upsets are of sufficient magnitude, they may be responsible for certain mental and physical defects in new born children."

Basic conflicts produced in parents of emotionally dependent and physically handicapped children, evoked by fear, disruption of hopes and aspirations, may so blind them to a realistic appraisal of their situation that effective, remedial action is paralyzed or delayed, retarding the social adjustment of the child and defeating the very thing they seek. Dr. Richard L. Frank, professor of psychiatry at Long Island College of Medicine, and associate psychoanalyst at the Clinic for Research and Psychoanalytic Training, Columbia University, said, "The fundamental problem in the care of handicapped children is careful adjustment of environmental pressures in accordance with the child's available mental and physical resources," said Dr. Frank, "and proper provision for the child's needs realistically and from the child's own point of view regarding the situation."

Sterilization of children with inherent mental defects, because of their inability to produce normal offspring, was recommended by Dr. Joseph Barrett, commissioner of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals, Dividing children who are mentally deficient into two classes, those with inherent or germ plasma defects, and those with non-inherent or accidental defects resulting from infection or injury. Dr. Barrett outlined a program for the prevention and treatment of mental disease in children which included, in addition to sterilization, adequate vocational training to be supplied by "the educational system" for those who are not in state mental institutions and are not social problems, and training to capacity for those who are in institutions. He also recommended sterilization for those whose mental defects are accidental "because though able, possibly, to produce normal children, they are incapable of raising them normally." A program of training to capacity would also include this group, he added.

ROSTER OF PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC'S ARTER CENTURY CLUB IN 1949

(Every one of these 1933 members has worked with P. E. for twenty-five years or more)

[illegible]

Philadelphia Electric's Quarter Century Club gathered last night for their twenty-third annual dinner. The 354 new members welcomed to the club's ranks last evening swell the membership to 1933, all of whom are listed above. Their time-tested experience and constant devotion to duty have contributed mightily to Philadelphia Electric's standard of service. We frankly told them so last night . . . and to-day want to tell everyone in the territory we serve.

TRENTON CATHOLIC TRACK TEAM WINS TRIANGULAR MEET HELD AT MORRISVILLE; BRISTOL SECOND

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 22—Trenton Catholic High won a triangular track meet with Bristol and Morrisville here yesterday afternoon. Coach John Ungrady's boys scored 86 points. Bristol finished second with 62½ points with Morrisville getting 31½ points.

Bristol made an excellent showing in the meet, Coach McClister being minus several of his runners and Charles Long suffering an injury to his shoulder in the broad jump. Long had but one jump and this was good enough to give him fifth spot.

Bristol stayed close to the Trenton Catholic total until the finish. With the first four events completed the Warriors and the Golden Wave were tied at 27 points each. Bristol went ahead in the fifth event but Trenton Catholic jumped into a 55½, 42½ lead at the end of the eighth event. Bristol cut into the lead when the 10th event was finished but in the last two, Trenton increased its lead to over 20 points.

First place winners for the McClistermen were Howard Bailey, Bob Bowen, Harry Ratcliffe, and Donald DeLong.

Bailey did a beautiful job in the mile run, the only event in which he participated. "Bill" Brady, of Trenton Catholic, took the lead in this run and lead until the first lap was finished. Then Marty Braam, of Bristol took over and it wasn't until the third lap that Bailey began to let out. He passed both Brady and Braam and gradually increased his lead until he was a quarter of a lap ahead of the rest when he broke the tape at 5 minutes and 8 seconds.

Bailey captured the 880 yard run after taking the lead towards the finish. He stepped ahead of Bob Carroll while rounding the third curve on the track and maintained his speed the remainder of the race.

Ratcliffe won the high jump after clearing the bar at 5' 5". Ratcliffe did not choose to attempt to leap higher. Donald DeLong hurled the javelin 131 feet, 5 inches to win his event.

Bob Felver, of Morrisville, was the only double winner. He captured 100 yard dash and the broad jump and finished in a deadlock with Pat Carroll for first place in the 220 yard dash.

"Bill" Lindenthal piled up 14 points for the Trenton Catholic team, placing in four events.

Paul Fleischer, Morrisville, went over the bar at 10 feet, six inches, in the pole vaulting match. This is believed to be a Lower Bucks record.

County record, Fleischer tried to make the vault at 10-10 but missed. Bristol's best event was the high jump in which it tallied 11 points with Ratcliffe winning and Keiff, Konefal, and Sharp placing. In the mile run, Bailey and Braam tabulated 9 points for the Warriors.

The shot put gave Trenton Catholic 12 points while it scored 10 in both the 880 yard run and discus throw.

In an attempt to better meet the educational requirements and needs of pupils as they go through Bristol public schools, questionnaires are being mailed to approximately 700 graduates and former students (years 1945 through 1948).

The letter accompanying each questionnaire appears over the signatures of David L. Hertzler, high school principal, and John C. Burris and Miss Marion E. Peck, counselors. The letter reads: "We are asking you to help us so that we may help you, as well as the present students, whom we may better advise in the light of your experience. Will you fill out this paper and return it at once to the guidance office? Keep in touch with the school. Don't forget that we are interested in you and your progress. If we can help you, call on us."

Among the questions to be answered are: Year of graduation or leaving; high school course; present address; school or college attended since graduation; working experience since graduation; if school was of assistance in obtaining such employment; military service; what high school subjects proved of most value; which subject not taken in high school would have been of value to pupil; what extra curricular activities, if any, have been of help in business or work; could guidance office have been of greater assistance, and what additional aid of that type could have been given; "can we help you now?"

A meeting of the committee of Girl Scout Troop 46 was held at the residence of Mrs. William Ervin on Tuesday. Mrs. Robert Hoff presided.

Mrs. F. S. Lockard read the replies which have been received from two camps. No decision has been reached regarding possible attendance at a Philadelphia day camp. The possibility of enrolling for a weekly swimming session at the Kensington Y. W. C. A. was discussed. Mrs. Hoff and Mrs. Ervin will be in charge.

Plans for the variety show which will be given on Friday evening were completed. A roller skating party will take place on May 6th. Mrs. Donald Combee and Mrs. Hoff will supervise the troop's participation in the Memorial day parade.

In an attempt to better meet the educational requirements and needs of pupils as they go through Bristol public schools, questionnaires are being mailed to approximately 700 graduates and former students (years 1945 through 1948).

The letter accompanying each questionnaire appears over the signatures of David L. Hertzler, high school principal, and John C. Burris and Miss Marion E. Peck, counselors. The letter reads: "We are asking you to help us so that we may help you, as well as the present students, whom we may better advise in the light of your experience. Will you fill out this paper and return it at once to the guidance office? Keep in touch with the school. Don't forget that we are interested in you and your progress. If we can help you, call on us."

Among the questions to be answered are: Year of graduation or leaving; high school course; present address; school or college attended since graduation; working experience since graduation; if school was of assistance in obtaining such employment; military service; what high school subjects proved of most value; which subject not taken in high school would have been of value to pupil; what extra curricular activities, if any, have been of help in business or work; could guidance office have been of greater assistance, and what additional aid of that type could have been given; "can we help you now?"

A meeting of the committee of Girl Scout Troop 46 was held at the residence of Mrs. William Ervin on Tuesday. Mrs. Robert Hoff presided.

Mrs. F. S. Lockard read the replies which have been received from two camps. No decision has been reached regarding possible attendance at a Philadelphia day camp. The possibility of enrolling for a weekly swimming session at the Kensington Y. W. C. A. was discussed. Mrs. Hoff and Mrs. Ervin will be in charge.

Plans for the variety show which will be given on Friday evening were completed. A roller skating party will take place on May 6th. Mrs. Donald Combee and Mrs. Hoff will supervise the troop's participation in the Memorial day parade.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

Editor's Note: "Sportsmen's Briefs" has been a regular weekly feature in the Bristol Courier for the last 323 consecutive weeks (6 3/4 years), and after writing approximately 150,000 words on outdoor items in that time, Joe Elbersson has secured the services of two guest columnists for his column today. They are two well-known local sportsmen, John C. Johnson and Harry Rossler, who have collaborated to give our readers the following column:

Inasmuch as the veracity of the regular sports editor of this column might be questioned (especially after a good first day's catch) we're agreed you readers would appreciate the true facts and present them here.

After arising at 2:00 a. m. on Friday morning we started driving. We arrived at just about daylight on the Little Bushkill, in the Poconos, feeling very lucky to be alive. The regular editor of this article was the driver.

The water looked perfect, not too high and not too low. The weather was just right and the fish were biting. In the first hour, Joe had eight nice trout while your guest columnists had only three. Johnnie Johnson headed down stream out of the crowd and when we asked him two hours later, how many he caught he told us that when he caught his next one and nine more he would have his limit.

About eleven o'clock the fishermen started to leave the stream and after things became a little more quiet we started catching fish again. By two o'clock the three of us checked our creels and counted 27 brook ranging in size from 7 to 10 inches. About that time it clouded up and a storm drove us off the stream so we called it a day.

Saturday we rested our arms from handling the mighty fighters and Sunday morning about daylight, we tried the same stream again. It produced only six trout up to ten o'clock so we moved out and tried a stretch of nice water on the Ramondskill.

Joe must have had one tied and he made a dash for a hole he said produced a nice rainbow for him last year. Not thirty seconds later we looked up stream and saw him rolling up his sleeves and trying to reach down into the water. When he saw us looking at him he started shouting and waving his arms. We couldn't hear him above the rushing water but it looked to us as though he was signalling for a landing net. Just the day before he told us that anybody that used a net was a "simple ass" so we knew he wasn't asking for a net and we simply ignored him. He was grimacing and making motions with his mouth which we are glad we don't have to print in this column because they're hard to spell. We know that the Rev. Weller caught his ten trout the first day on Mill Creek, near Buckingham, and we're sure he didn't talk to the fish like that. Wish more fishermen would let Joe know how many fish they caught and what soothie words they used to lure them. Well, finally Joe reached into the water with both arms and after fumbling around he held up a beautiful 15-inch brownie. And brother it was a beauty! It had to be, to make a hardened fisherman like Joe run up and down the banks holding the trout up in the air with sweat pouring off his forehead when the temperature was low enough to freeze the line in the guides. After he showed us the fish, which by that time was stuffed up to the gills with sinkers ready for weighing in, we had to help him find his rod which he lost in the excitement. Congratulations, Joe, it's not every fisherman who can land a beautiful brownie with his line snagged on the bottom and his landing net nestling comfortably in the trunk of his car.

We tried for over two hours after that and not one of the three of us were able to coax another strike, so we decided to give it up for the day.

It was, all in all, an enjoyable and productive week-end. Most of the anglers we met had trout. We've already begun our plans for opening day next year, April 15, 1950. Yes, we're going back to the Poconos!

P. S.—Garden hackle was used exclusively as the lure.

P. S.—Saw more grouse than we've seen for a long time, and trust this augurs a good hunting season this fall.

P. S.—Also saw two herds of deer on Sunday.

FIVE TEAMS POST FRANCHISE MONEY FOR "SUB" LEAGUE

Five teams posted their franchises in the Bristol Suburban Baseball League last night at a meeting in the Diamond Sporting Goods Store. The five teams stated definitely that they will begin the season on Monday evening, May 9th.

Two other teams advised the league officers that they will know by next Monday evening whether or not they will join the circuit.

Teams in the league are: St. Ann's, Lewis Lodge of Elks, Hibernians, Edgely, and Flannery Eagles. The team managers completed part of the constitution last night and have called another meeting for next Wednesday evening when the laws will be completed.

The managers decided to cut the franchise fee from $100 to $50 and will also curtail the number of home games.

The Lewis Lodge of Elks baseball team will hold a practice session Sunday afternoon at two o'clock on Leedom's field. Manager "Bill" Keys requests all players to be present.

Joseph Dolan, manager of the Hibernian team, has called practice for Sunday afternoon on the Third Ward field at two o'clock.

Hang your For Rent or For Sale sign in the Want Ad columns.

BASEBALL PRACTICE

Members of the St. Ann's A. A. baseball squad are asked to report to Leedom's Field at one o'clock Saturday afternoon for a practice session.

MADE RIGHT TO STAY WHITE

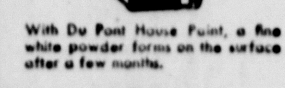

Du Pont House Paint
Cleans itself!

All paints collect dust and dirt during the first few months.

With Du Pont House Paint, a fine white powder forms on the surface after a few months.

Rains wash off this powder, and with it much of the accumulated dirt and grime.

Self-Cleaning leaves surface clean and white . . . keeps it sparkling white for years. This cleaning process is gradual and does not adversely affect the long life of the paint.

White and bright for years!
That can be your home if you specify improved Du Pont No. 40 Outside White the next time the painters come. Owing to its unique combination of pigments and oils, Du Pont "40" actually cleans itself . . . sheds dirt and dust with every heavy rain! Normally, this "Self-Cleaning" starts in a few months on most surfaces. However, excessive soot or heavy shade, or stains from metal surfaces such as copper screening may interfere with, or delay, the process.

You save, too, when your painters use Du Pont. Smooth, easy application, excellent spread and high-hiding plus long-lasting protection against rust, rot and decay . . . all add up in your favor. "Self-cleaning" Du Pont House Paint is available in No. 40 White and light tints. If the surface is bare wood or badly weathered paint, ask your painter to use new Du Pont House Paint Primer. It's the right prime coat for the job! In 5 gal. lots $5.85 gal.

The Finishing Touch for New Home Beauty!—Fade Resistant Du Pont DULUX Trim and Trelis Finishes

Outside trim and shutters keep their sparkle year after year . . . with extra-double DULUX Trim & Trelis. It resists mildew and fading . . . brushes on easily . . . covers solidly . . . dries tack-free in a few hours. Your choice of three Greens, Brown, Black, a new Blue and Bright Red that stay fresh and beautiful!

Save the surface and you save all!
